

Cooking Revolution

Alex Hanbuckers – Photography Bart van Leuven

- Alex Hanbuckers of the famous 'Auberge Herborist', the 'El Bulli' of the Low Countries, is back with an absolute masterpiece
- A case containing two books: a multilingual coffee table book and a handy guide filled to the brim with dishes that can easily be cooked at home
- Full of practical and crystal-clear step by step photography by Bart van Leuven

Alex Hanbuckers belongs to a draft of new European top chefs, who respect basic ingredients, yet prefer an extremely creative approach.

In this book, he creates culinary combinations that will ensure the same aha-experience at home as at his restaurant. Dishes that do not necessarily involve pyrotechnics or force the reader to go and hunt for expensive delicatessen. No, these two books show the gastronomy of the 21st century in a truly innovative way.

The first book emphasizes the practical steps one needs to take in the kitchen in order to achieve a maximum result. Often, three or four steps are all that is necessary.

The second book demonstrates a number of culinary tours de force in a stunningly beautiful way.

220 x 200 mm | 2 x 108 pages
150 colour illustrations | 10,000 words hardcover in transparent case planned languages: French, German, English, Italian and Dutch all rights available