The great travel diary of Kika & Bob

Vincent Bal & Colette Bothof
 illustrations Fons Schiedon

- › The adventures of a brave girl and a fireman
- › Full of games, weird facts and thrilling stories
- › Playfully presents different countries and cultures
- › Televised on Belgian and Dutch TV
- › Funny illustrations and dynamic lay-out

Fireman Bob and the nine-year-old Kika are blown away by a hurricane to the other side of the world when trying to save Kika's cat out of a tree. They want to return home as quickly as possible, but first they need to conquer obstacles and pass through strange areas.

Vincent Bal confirmed his talent as a film director with Man of steel and Minoes. He wrote and illustrated Calypso. For The pharmacist is feeling broken-hearted he made the beautiful illustrations.

Colette Bothof graduated in 1993 at the Dutch Film and Television Academy. She works as a director and scriptwriter.
