

125 x 200 mm | 96 pages
paperback | ca 25,000 words
all rights available

Daddy for beginners

Jack Botermans & Frank van Ark

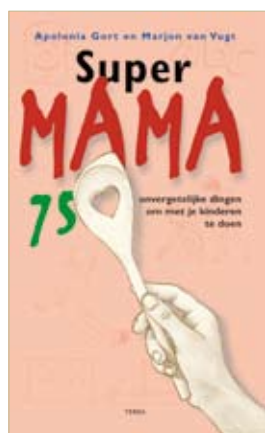

- ▶ A gift book for father that is also of use to children
- ▶ Handicrafts, tricks, toys and games that you learn best from your dad
- ▶ With wooden toys, such as a doll's house and a knight's castle
- ▶ With crystal-clear working plans

The only handbook for beginning fathers or fathers-to-be. Modern dads surely know how to be up-to-date. They join pregnancy gym lessons, they puff and gasp during childbirth just as their wife does, they share all household tasks. Nothing special, is it? But what exactly does a father do with his child?

If you break out in a cold sweat, then this book is for you. Do not be afraid: you do not have to excel at everything. Yet a certain number of things should be right up your street. So you don't know how to build a wooden kart? Fine. Nobody will take offence. But you can surely make a paper plane? And what about a show-box? Yes, all this belongs to the basic skills of a thoroughly modern dad.

And the funny thing is – in unlike most basic skills – it is all such great fun!

125 x 200 mm | 96 pages
paperback | ca 25,000 words
all rights available

Super mum

Apolonia Gort & Marjon van Vugt

- ▶ An unforgettable book for mums, chockablock with nostalgic games
- ▶ The other handbook for every beginning mum or mum-to-be

A new mum is taught everything about childbirth and depregnancy, dietary plans and growth curves. Taking care of your children is one thing, playing with them is quite another. Or do you happen to know how to prepare a pancake pie? Or a colourful pasta necklace? A little nature painting perhaps? And what do you think of puff pastry mice, a decorated sandwich or an animal puzzle?

These are all basic skills of a thoroughly modern mum. That's why this book turns ordinary mummies into super mums.